A Day's Doings in Kentucky

A LYNCHING IS FEARED.

The County Jail at Irvine is Guarded Against a Mob.

Irvine, Ky., Oct. 13.—George Lunsford, who shot the Maness brothers, Irvine and Will, last Saturday, was Thursday held without bail to await the action of the grand jury. Excitement is high in the Doe creek neighborhood and frequent threats of lynching are heard. This feeling was greatly intensified by the burial of Will Maness. Irvine Maness is still alive, but no hope is entertained for his recovery. The jail is guarded, and Dick Johnson, jailer, a determined and fearless man, declares he will not give up his prisoner to any mob. There are two other men in jail charged with murder.

ANOTHER TO BE IMPANELED.

Trial of Bowers for Murder Resulted in a Hung Jury.

London, Ky., Oct. 13.—The trial of Virgil Bowers, the negro, for the murder of George Farris, the well-known Knox county lumber merchant, in the circuit court here, resulted in a hung jury. Ten of the jury were for the death penalty, while two others voted for a life sentence. The court made an order for the sheriff to go to Rockcastle county and summon 50 men from whom to select a new jury to try the case. The men will arrive Friday afternoon and the case will go to trial again.

FRANK TEAVELL LYNCHED.

A Mob Takes Him From Jail and Hangs Him To a Tree.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 13.—Frank Teavell, colored, was taken from the Elkhorn (Ky.) jail by 120 men at midnight and hanged to a tree one mile from town. Teavell had gone to the home of Mrs. Ann Burum Saturday night and insulted Mrs. Burum and her daughter. He was captured Wednesday and sent to Elkhorn. The negro had a wooden leg, which fixed his identity.

The Breckinridge Home Sold.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 13.—The residence of the late Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge on East High street was sold for his executors at public sale. J. D. Wilson was the purchaser for $9,000. D. P. Frazer bought the farm of E. H. Ferguson, comprising 48 acres, for $50,000.

Saved From a Mob.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 13.—Charles H. Greenwell, under indictment for the murder of Martin Roberts at Beards-town, Nelson county, was brought to Louisville and lodged in jail for safekeeping. A mob had planned to lynch him.

Took His Own Life.

Covington, Ky., Oct. 13.—While despondent John Vogelsang, 41, a farmer, cut his throat from ear to ear. Vogelsang resided on the Taylor Mill road, back of Covington, but was stopping at the home of his brother-in-law, Joseph Garlich.

Switchman Killed By An Engine.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 14.—James Scott, an Illinois Central switchman, of Paducah, 47, was killed at Fulton. He was on the rear end of an engine that was backing. The air hose became caught in a frog and pulled the stop off, throwing Scott under the engine.

Killed in a Planing Mill.

Springfield, Ky., Oct. 14.—Frank Biven, one of the best-known mechanics of the county, died as the result of an injury received at the planing mill here. A piece of timber caught in a buzz-saw, which threw it with great force, striking Mr. Biven.

A Youth Indicted For Murder.

Harrodsburg, Ky., Oct. 14.—John Marshall, 12, was indicted by the grand jury for killing Peter Crockett, a boy about the same age. Marshall fired several times at his companions—"just for fun"—and killed the little Crockett boy.

To Investigate Railway Rates.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 14.—Definite decision to make a sweeping and general investigation of all local rates charged by railroads between points in Kentucky was made by the railroad commission after an all-day session.

New Kentucky Postmasters.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Postmasters appointed: Kentucky—Satter, Floyd county, Asa P. Cline; Smithville, Bullitt county, Edward T. King; Stop Grayson county, Susan E. Jones; Woodsonville, Hart county, Sallie Key.

SEAWEED HARVEST.

A PICTURESQUE INDUSTRY OF MASSACHUSETTS COAST.

Tons Upon Tons of Purple Dulce Are Gathered by Women and Children in the Season.

Race suicide is said to be a danger to which Massachusetts is exposed, and there is one part of the population that is fully and peculiarly liable to this danger. This comprises the seaweed gatherers of the coast.

Every well grown child in such a family is regarded as a source of wealth, and the most frequent excuse of the man whose harvest of seaweed makes a poor showing beside that of his neighbor is:

"Oh, Tom has six children, and I and my old woman work alone."

It is either a very small child or a very dull child that cannot bear a hand in curing the seaweed, and a stout boy or an active girl can venture out in the weed gatherer's boat or at least tear the weed from half exposed rocks at low tide.

Up at rocky Gloucester these harvesters of the sea gather tons of purple dulce. Their little shanties sit snug in the crannies of the cliffs, their tents seek shelter at the base of the great rocky wall on bits of smooth sand above the reach of the highest tides.

Their narrow paths, deep sunk in the dense grass and hidden by the bays that clothe the edge of the cliffs, wind in bewildering mazes along the table lands that overlook the sea. Tenuous stairways and hazardous ladders lead down the cliffs to the blouses of the dulce gatherers, and slender bridges here and there are slung from house to house across the crevasses that deeply indent the rock.

Here at Seaside, in that deeply retired little slum of the harbor where the women of the revolutionary period are said to have frightened off a landing party from a British man-of-war by vigorously playing marbles behind the sand dunes, the sea harvest is especially Irish moss.

From heart trouble and asthma and reports from his home say that he has been unable to lie down for more than a week, and that what sleep he gets he is forced to take sitting upright in a chair. Editor Moore has made himself a national character during the past few years by his writings on fidelity and prohibition, and his ideas concerning religion have on several occasions resulted in warm debates with ministers. He was convicted several years ago in the federal courts and sentenced to a term in the penitentiary for sending obscene matter through the mails, but after serving several months in the federal prison at Columbus was pardoned.

THE SHELBY CUT-OFF.

Court Orders the L. & N. To Operate Local Service.

Shelbyville, Ky., Oct. 11.—Judge John D. Carr, of New Castle, sitting as special judge in equity in the Shelby circuit court in the case of the commonwealth against the L. & N. railroad, entered an order directing and commanding the defendant railroad to furnish one each day, Sundays excepted, reasonable and proper facilities for receiving, forwarding and delivering freight and passengers over its line of road known as the "Cut-off" between Shelbyville and Christianburg. The L. & N. is given 30 days to comply with the order. An appeal was granted to the court of appeals. Judge R. F. Peak vacated the bench in this case for the reason that he instituted the action while commonwealth attorney.

THE DOC MASON FARM.

Sold to the Northern Coal and Coke Co. of New York.

Mt. Sterling, Ky., Oct. 14.—The Northern Coal and Coke Co., of New York, has just purchased the Doc Mason farm on Camp Branch creek, in Letcher county, for $40 per acre. The property contains several thousand acres and is on the Lexington & Eastern railway extension. It is the purpose of the company to build several coke ovens and open new mines. A few years ago these lands were offered for sale at $2 per acre. This purchase gives the Northern Co. the cream of the famous Elkhorn coal field.

The Hum's Assets.

Richmond, Ky., Oct. 14.—Frank Over, of Cincinnati, and J. W. Lockridge, of London, Ky., lumber experts, and W. R. Shackelford, of this city, who were appointed appraisers of the Hum's Cooperage Co. property, and who have been at work for the last week, finished their work and place all the holdings of the wrecked concern at $70,000. To offset this amount the company is said to owe over $400,000.

Neck Broken in a Runaway.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 14.—While on her way to the funeral of Fred Schuch, who committed suicide Wednesday, two days after his marriage, Mrs. Charles Wittwer was thrown from a buggy in a runaway and her neck broken. She lived only a few minutes.

Switchman Killed By An Engine.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 14.—James Scott, an Illinois Central switchman, of Paducah, 47, was killed at Fulton. He was on the rear end of an engine that was backing. The air hose became caught in a frog and pulled the stop off, throwing Scott under the engine.

Killed in a Planing Mill.

Springfield, Ky., Oct. 14.—Frank Biven, one of the best-known mechanics of the county, died as the result of an injury received at the planing mill here. A piece of timber caught in a buzz-saw, which threw it with great force, striking Mr. Biven.

A Youth Indicted For Murder.

Harrodsburg, Ky., Oct. 14.—John Marshall, 12, was indicted by the grand jury for killing Peter Crockett, a boy about the same age. Marshall fired several times at his companions—"just for fun"—and killed the little Crockett boy.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Postmasters appointed: Kentucky—Satter, Floyd county, Asa P. Cline; Smithville, Bullitt county, Edward T. King; Stop Grayson county, Susan E. Jones; Woodsonville, Hart county, Sallie Key.

One Cold and Another

The season's first cold may be slight—may yield to early treatment, but the next cold will hang on longer; it will be more troublesome, too. Unnecessary to take chances on that second one. Scott's Emulsion is a preventive as well as a cure. Take when colds abound and you'll have no cold. Take it when the cold is contracted and it checks inflammation, heals the membranes of the throat and lungs and drives the cold out.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

To Blow Them In.

Paducah, Ky., Oct. 13.—About 250 men are at work repairing and getting into condition the old Center fortifications in Crittenden county, which are expected to be blown in about November 16, by Dixon, White & Co., an eastern concern.

A Deserter Apprehended.

St. Thomas, Ky., Oct. 13.—Henry H. Hopel, an alleged deserter from the 17th company, coast artillery, was apprehended by the civil authorities at Paris, Ky., and brought to this post for trial by general court-martial.

A Lexington Horse Sale.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 13.—Geo. Saunders, acting for Snyder Bros., Lexington, Ky., has sold to David Shaw, of Pittsburgh, for $8,000, the four-year-old bay filly Madge Wildfire, by Berton, dam Lindlithgow, by Clay.

Will Erect a Confederate Monument.

Glasgow, Ky., Oct. 13.—The Charlotte chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, at its last meeting determined to erect on the public square here a monument to the confederate soldiers of Warren county.

Lineman's Fatal Fall.

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 13.—J. S. Runyon, of this city, who was employed as a lineman by the Fayette Home Telephone Co., was killed by falling from a tree on East High street while repairing a broken wire.

Elected Grand Master.

Shelbyville, Ky., Oct. 13.—The Kentucky grand lodge of Odd Fellows elected A. W. Clements, of Morgantown, grand master, and W. C. G. Hobbs, of Lexington, deputy grand master.
